

Royal College of General Practitioners

In partnership with

CANCER
RESEARCH
UK

Save the date:

Bristol Cancer Cascade workshop

When: Thursday 14th September 2017

Where: DoubleTree by Hilton, Bristol

Cancer Research UK (CRUK) and The Royal College of General Practitioners (RCGP) would like to invite you to participate in the upcoming Cascade workshop in Bristol on Thursday 14th September 2017.

What is Cascade?

The Cascade initiative aims to support and empower cancer champions working in primary care to drive improvements in cancer control.

Why come to Cascade?

Cascade provides the opportunity to:

- ✓ gain more insight into the national cancer agenda
- ✓ learn about practical ways to prevent and diagnose cancer
- ✓ hear from and meet academics and national leaders in cancer control
- ✓ network with other cancer champions from other areas
- ✓ discuss and share ideas for local improvement activities

“Excellent – learned lots and a fantastic opportunity to network!” GP,
Glasgow

Sessions are interactive including a mix of expert presentations and group discussion. They aim to provide the opportunity for idea development, supporting change and innovation.

Who is this event suitable for?

This is a free event for anyone working in primary care who has a specific interest in or remit for cancer control. Previous attendees have included GPs, commissioners, cancer managers and individuals working in public health.

Bristol workshop

The event in Bristol will focus on diagnostics and lung cancer, as well as updates on cancer prevention and early diagnosis issues. Speakers and agenda TBC.

Click here to register for your free ticket. For more information please visit www.cruk.org.uk/cascade or contact cascade@cancer.org.uk.

