

STATISTICAL PRESS NOTICE MONTHLY DELAYED TRANSFERS OF CARE DATA, ENGLAND, OCTOBER 2016

Main Findings – October 2016:

Delayed Transfers of Care

- There were 200,000 total delayed days in October 2016, of which 134,200 were in acute care. This is an increase from October 2015, where there were 160,100 total delayed days, of which 104,100 were in acute care. The 200,000 delayed days this month is the highest figure since monthly data was first collected in August 2010.
- 57.3% of all delays in October 2016 were attributable to the NHS, 34.9% were attributable to Social Care and the remaining 7.8% were attributable to both NHS and Social Care.
- The proportion of delays attributable to Social Care has increased over the last year to 34.9% in October 2016, compared to 30.9% in October 2015.
- The main reason for NHS delays in October 2016 was “patients awaiting further non-acute NHS care”. This accounted for 31,700 delayed days (27.7% of all NHS delays). The number of delays attributable to this reason showed a general increase between July 2015 and March 2016, before levelling off for several months. This month, the number of delays attributable to this reason has fallen again after peaking in September.
- The main reason for Social Care delays in October 2016 was “patients awaiting care package in their own home”. This accounted for 25,400 delayed days (36.4% of all Social Care delays), compared to 17,100 in October 2015. The number of delays attributable to this reason has been steadily increasing since February 2015.
- Delays can occur in either an acute or non-acute care setting. The proportion of delays occurring in acute care in October 2016 was 67.1% compared to 65.0% in October 2015.
- There were 6,800 patients delayed at midnight on the last Thursday of October 2016, of which 4,600 were acute patients. This compares to 5,300 patients, including 3,400 acute patients, which were delayed at midnight on the last Thursday of October 2015. The 6,800 patients delayed this month is the highest number since monthly data was first collected in August 2010.

Table 1 shows information on delayed transfers of care from October 2013 to October 2016.

Table 2 shows the number of delayed transfers of care by type of care, reason for delay and responsible organisation for October 2016.

Statistical Notes to Editors

1. Delayed Transfers of Care data

A delayed transfer of care occurs when a patient is medically fit for discharge from acute or non-acute care and is still occupying a bed. For a more detailed definition please read the guidance on NHS England's website at:

<http://www.england.nhs.uk/statistics/delayed-transfers-of-care/>

Data on the number of patients with a delayed transfers of care is a monthly snapshot taken at midnight on the last Thursday of each month and can fluctuate from month to month. Data on the number of delayed days is a cumulative figure for the month and therefore, the two are not comparable.

Data on delayed transfers of care is collected from providers of NHS funded care and is split by:

- Local Authority that is responsible for each patient delayed
- Agency responsible for delay (NHS, Social Services or both)
- Type of care that the patient receives (acute or non-acute)
- Reason for delay

A detailed breakdown of the data can be found on NHS England's website in CSV format at:

<http://www.england.nhs.uk/statistics/delayed-transfers-of-care/delayed-transfers-of-care-data-2016-17/>

2. Trust and Local Authority level data

Delayed transfers of care data covers NHS patients in English Hospitals, who may or may not reside in England and is published on both a trust and Local Authority basis.

Trust level reflects data at organisation level for those organisations that provide NHS funded care, for example acute Trusts, community providers, mental health trusts and Social Enterprise organisations.

Local Authority data reflects data on a regional population basis, i.e. Councils with Adult Social Services Responsibility (CASSRs) that are responsible for all patients who reside in their region.

3. Data Quality

Monthly delayed transfers of care data has been collected and published since August 2010. Prior to August 2010, data was collected weekly and was un-validated management information.

Delayed transfers of care data published during the early months of the collection from August 2010 to October 2010 should be treated with a degree of caution as a change from a weekly to a monthly data collection led to data quality issues. Since October 2010, there has been a significant improvement in the coverage and accuracy of this data.

4. Data Availability

Delayed Transfers of Care data is published approximately 6 weeks after the end of the reference period. The next publication of this report and accompanying data will be 12th January 2017.

5. Revisions

Revisions to previous month's data are made in line with NHS England's revisions protocol for performance monitoring data. Future revisions will be made on a six monthly cycle. The revisions protocol can be found on the NHS England website at: <http://www.england.nhs.uk/statistics/code-compliance/>
