1 Introduction

The role of NHS England is to commission healthcare services, both directly and indirectly, so that valuable public resources secure the best possible outcomes for patients. In doing so, NHS England will seek to meet the objectives prescribed in the Mandate and to uphold the NHS Constitution. This policy is important because it will help the people who work for the NHS England understand how to look after the information they need to do their jobs, and to protect this information on behalf of patients.

Information Governance is a framework for handling personal information in a confidential and secure manner to appropriate ethical and quality standards in a modern health service. It provides a consistent way for employees to deal with the many different information handling requirements including:

- Information Governance Management.
- Clinical Information assurance for Safe Patient Care.
- Confidentiality and Data Protection assurance.
- Corporate Information assurance.
- Information Security assurance
- Secondary use assurance.
- Respecting data subjects’ rights regarding the processing of their personal data.

The formal framework that leaders of all health and social care organisations should commit to is set out in the National Data Guardian’s ten security standards. These are the basis of the Data Security and Protection Toolkit that health and social care organisations must use to assess their information governance performance.

Under data protection legislation, organisations that process personal data are accountable for, and must be able to demonstrate their compliance with the legislation. The arrangements set out in this and related policies and procedures are intended to achieve this demonstrable compliance.

2 Purpose

The purpose of this policy is to inform NHS England staff (permanent or otherwise), including those working for Commissioning Support Units (CSUs), of their Information Governance responsibilities and the management arrangements and other policies that are in place to ensure demonstrable compliance.
